Record of Klein Family in Pennsylvania

1737 - 1787

It was the Policy of Colonial America to Anglicize all names as quickly as possible for purposes of state.

We find the name Klein goes back to Switzerland and it is variously spelled Klein-Cline-Kline-Clyne, finally the English word Little stands for it.

In Volume 17 of the 2nd series of Pennsylvania Archives is recorded the arrival of Johannes Ludwig Klein, on the Ship Samuel,-- Capt. Hugh Perry -- landing in Philadelphia 8-3-1737. Accompanying him was his wife Mary Eva and his son Peter. His age on arrival was forty years, thus he was born in 1697 at Zwer Brucken, Switzerland.

Klein-Little Data

On his arrival Johannes took the oath of Allegiance to King George of England thereby becoming a loyal citizen. He settled in Lancaster County - the fourth County of the Province of Pennsylvania - without moving from the land patented by him, he later became a resident of York County which was formed from Lancaster in 1749. When he died his land was situated in what is now Adams County - where he had an Estate of more than 500 acres.

John Little as he is known, served in the Colonial Wars - and as a member of the Militia during the Revolutionary War, when he died in 1787 in Germany Township, Adams County, Pennsylvania. There is no record of his wife's death - as she is not spoken of in his will - she was living in 1781 - last mention of her in church records.

John Little left three children - 1st, his son Peter - born in Zwer Brucken, Switzerland 1724 - 1773; 2nd, Frederick, born in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania in 1757, died 1811; 3rd, Margaret who married ---------- Franciscus.

John Little's will is to be found in Register of Will's Office, York, Pennsylvania - a copy of it is appended. There is also a record of Johannes Ludwick Klein's Estate and its distribution in Book A - Orphans Court Docket page 225, York County, Pennsylvania.

The oldest son of Johannes and Mary Eva was Peter Little, born in Switzerland, 1724, died in Frederick County, Maryland, in 1773 and whose will is recorded at Frederick, Maryland.

Peter Little married Ursula Schreiber. The children of this couple are mentioned in his will - Book A, Vol. A, Register of Wills.

Peter Little of the 2nd generation was an unusually able man with a thoughtful mind. The plans he made for the disposal of his lands when he completed the town of Peter Little's town, as it was originally called, by a system of lease holds was very unique - the plan is explained at great length in the recorder of deeds' office, York, Pennsylvania. The leases were for ninety-nine years duration. Many of them have never been redeemed. The record of this most interesting development is found in Book A, Vol. 3, page 180, Clerk's Office, York, Pennsylvania.

[From the Two Hundredth Anniversary Celebration of the Laux-Loux-Lauck-Loucks-Loucks Family Association held at Brookside Park, York, Pennsylvania, June 12, 1910 (Reprint in the Genealogy of the Loucks Family by Edwin Merton McBrier, 1940, pp. 276-280.)

From Schoharie to Tulpehocken, Pa.
By Rev. Michael Loucks, D. D., Marietta, Pa.

The environments in which we are, often cause a spirit of discontent, when we know that we might get away from our surroundings to create for ourselves new conditions. This was the case with a number of the Palatines whose hardships in Schoharie Valley seemed to stand in the way of their advancement. These people heard through William Keith, Provincial Governor of the Province of Pennsylvania, of the opportunities in his Province and of the protection afforded the pioneers, and because of this were induced to risk life and property to locate within the borders of Pennsylvania. They believed they would have better opportunities of advancement, and looking forward to their new and peaceful homes, they were willing to pay the cost and make the trip. The thought of such a trip under the adverse circumstances, would have disheartened most people, but the hardy Palatine braved it all.

Accordingly in 1723 thirty-three families prepared to make the trip. There were heartaches among the women and children when home ties were about to be broken, some never again to meet in this life. Parents gave up their only sons and daughters that they might find for themselves a new and better home. Among them was a young man of resolute character who determined to launch out for himself and bade adieu to his parents to share the fate of others who were willing to trust a Divine Power to lead them to the land of their dreams.

It was here that Peter Laux, the son of Philip, showed true manly courage and broke home ties.

Led by a friendly Indian these families started out over an Indian trail for the head waters of the Susquehanna River, up in Southern New York. With their meager household goods packed on horses and on their own backs, over mountains, valleys, and through forests, they reached the head waters of the Susquehanna River. Here in the wilds of the forest they set to construction work upon which they placed their women and children and household goods, and under the most thrilling and adventurous experiences they floated down the river for about two hundred miles to the mouth of Swatara Creek south of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Here they met the men who drove the cattle and horses along the river bank. The experiences of this trip could hardly be examined by any one not accustomed to such hardships. It was thrilling beyond description. It revealed again the stern determination to overcome every obstacle in their way.

Upon reaching the Swatara, they followed its windings until they reached the beautiful New Lebanon Valley, and came to the source of the Tulpehocken Creek. (Tulpehocken is an Indian name and means Land of Turtles.) This beautiful stream winds through the valleys and among the hills for a distance of seventy-five miles and empties into the Schuylkill. The township known by that name was recognized as a distinct territory in 1720. It was along this stream and over the northwest section of this township that the people from Schoharie settled.

Some of the Early Settlers.

We do not consider it necessary to give a complete list of all who were in that company, but for purposes of identification we give a partial list. Many of these names are still familiar throughout that region, as many of their descendants still reside upon the farms of their ancestors. Among them we find the following: Johannes Lantz, Peter Pleth, Lorenz Herbe, Johannes Nicholas Schaeffer, John Peter Laent, Sebastian Fisher, Christian Lauer, John Adam Lasch, George Ensminger, Abraham Lenz, and Peter Laux.

This Peter Laux is the son of Philip Laux, of Schoharie County, New York, and a brother of Cornelius, Andrew and William, who remained in New York, he being the only one of the family to locate in Pennsylvania. He selected a location on the banks of the Tulpehocken Creek about five miles northwest of the town of Womelsdorf. Here he built a log house and barn, with thatched roofs near a spring of living water.

In 1732 other families followed from Schoharie and settled in the same community, and among them was John Conrad Weiser, who was prominent among them in Livingston Manor. He, however, for some reasons, did not remain long, but his noted son, Conrad Weiser, Jr., the Indian interpreter, located in the vicinity of Womelsdorf and lies buried on the old farm about a mile east of that town. These first settlers in Tulpehocken were members of the Reformed and Lutheran Churches, and were the founders of congregations throughout that region of the country. During the early part of their residence there they worshipped in houses and barns. The first congregation to be organized in that region was in 1727, as a Reformed Church. Rev. John Philip Boehm administered the first communion at Tulpehocken in October, 1727, to thirty-two persons. Later the Host's Church was built, to which our ancestors belonged, inasmuch as here the children were baptized as is shown in the church records. Among the early Lutheran pastors was the Rev. J. Casper Stoever, in whose private records are found some interesting facts about his works. He married our ancestor, Peter Laux, in 1743.

Peter Laux's Land Grant and Deeds.

After having lived on the tract of land, which he selected as a home, for fifteen years, he was given a land grant. In the Archives at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, we find a record of the land grant to Peter Laux, for a tract of land located in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania (now Berks County), adjoining John Carver on Tulpehocken Creek, consisting of a hundred and fifty acres of land, more or less, (Further described in a copy of the original grant) "Given under my hand and lesser seal of our Province, at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, the third day of November, 1743, signed by Thomas Penn, as also by Benjamin Eastburn, Surveyor General."

Patent Deed.

After living upon the above described grant of land fourteen years, we find a patent deed to Peter Laux, dated November 7th, 1758, describing the aforesaid tract of land, calling for one hundred and fifty acres and the allowances, and an allowance of six acres, per cent for roads, etc. (After being surveyed it contained one hundred and ninety-seven and one-half acres.) This deed was recorded November 15th, 1758, signed by James Hamilton, Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Pennsylvania.

Here Peter Laux and his wife, Anna Barbara Kershner, to whom he was married June 20th, 1743, continued farming until the fall of 1775, when he divided his farm between his two sons, George and Reobald (Herald in tax list) and this deed was not recorded but is in the hands of Jacob Loucks, of Womelsdorf, Pennsylvania, written on sheep skin and in a perfect state of preservation.

The following chain of title gives the descendants of Peter Laux, our ancestor: On the first day of October, A. D., 1776, he deeded his son Reobald Laux ninety-one acres and one hundred and eighteen perches of land, and allowances of six acres per cent for roads, etc., and on June 16th, A. D., 1780 Reobald Laux and Maria Appolona, his wife, by their deed conveyed and confirmed to George Laux, the ninety-one acres and eighteen perches of land and allowances for roads, etc. This then gave the whole of the old farm to his son George Laux, and on the fifteenth day of December, A. D., 1804, George and Catherine, his wife, conveyed and confirmed unto their son Peter Loucks, Jr., his heirs and assigns, all that certain tract or parcel of land known as the immigrant Peter Laux's farm.

Peter had two sons, George and Deobald, and George stands at the head of our family. Concerning Deobald nothing seems to be known after his disposal of the land to his brother George. He may possibly have gone to some other locality.

The George Laux (Loucks) Family.

George and his wife Catherine, were the parents of six children, which fact is corroborated by his last will and testament executed on the 3d day of October, 1803, and recorded in the Register of Wills Office at Reading, Berks County, Pennsylvania, in Will Book A, page 565. He made his son Peter the executor of the estate.

The Names of George Laux (Loucks) Family.

John Laux (Loucks) was born March 3d, 1762 - died April 10, 1832.
Jacob Loucks, born July 17th, 1763 - died 1837.
Elizabeth Loucks, born September 24th, 1776 - died 1837.
Casper Loucks, born August 8th, 1762 - died 1838.
George Loucks (no dates given).
Peter Loucks, born July 1st, 1776 - died 1850.

Some of these children were baptized in Host's Reformed Church, in Berks County, Pennsylvania. In the baptismal records we find the baptism of Casper, son of George and Catherine Laux, August 17th, 1762, and his baptismal name was Casper Laux, agreeing with the original way of spelling the name.

In the National Museum at Philadelphia is the baptismal certificate of Peter Laux, son of George, who was born four days before the Declaration of Independence. This certificate was placed there in 1876, when they were preparing for the Centennial celebration, and as it properly belongs to the descendants of Peter Loucks, they should endeavor to secure it.

Our ancestors lived during some epoch-making times of our great country. The time in which this country was in process of formation found them busy with the duties of home and country. They had many trials as they were in the very midst of the community in which the Indians committed such atrocities during the years from 1754 to 1763. History furnishes abundant proof of the trials through which all the inhabitants of that community must have passed. All around them their neighbors suffered martyrdom, and great was the fury of the wild beasts in human form. They were among those who organized for self-protection in case of an attack from the Indians. Many of the inhabitants of the Tulpehocken fled for their lives, while others stood their ground. Numerous forts all over northern Berks County to the Blue Mountains gave evidence of the gravity of the situation. So far as known none of our people fell prey to the Indians. It was during this time the story of Regina and her captive life found its origin. Great things were making and doing in this country at that time, to which our ancestors were eye witnesses, and could we have the record of their experiences at that time it would read like a fairy tale compared to some of the modern fiction. To show how near the community and home of our ancestor some of the events took place during the Indian uprising, we quote from Brunner's Indians in Berks County, page 57. "The first letter that contains any positive information of the coming of the Indians, was written by Conrad Weiser to James Read, of Reading. It was written in Heidelberg, Sunday night, October 30, 1755. Mr. Weiser received intelligence of the approach of the Indians about ten o'clock that evening, and immediately sent out men to give the alarm through the neighboring townships and to call a meeting early at Peter Spicker's. Peter Spicker lived in the upper part of Stouchsburg, in a house now owned by Dr. A. S. Bevenot. The meeting was announced to be held at Peter Spicker's but a letter written the next day by Conrad Weiser, reports that the meeting was held at Benjamin Spicker's, about one mile north of Stouchsburg." This place is not more than three miles from the home of our ancestor, Peter Laux, of Tulpehocken, and in all probability he with some of his sons were at this meeting. From reliable history it was somewhere near the Tulpehocken Church that a family by the name of Hartmen lived from the experiences of which the interesting story of Regina comes. This church was or is only two miles and a half from our ancestor's home, and we take the liberty of briefly giving the facts for the benefit of those who may not have access to this history. The family consisted of father, mother, two sons and two daughters. The parents were pious people and taught their children to pray and read the Scriptures and to sing. On October 10th, 1755, the mother and younger son were gone to mill some miles away and when they returned they were horror-stricken to find the father and eldest son murdered and scalped by the Indians, and the two girls, Regina, twelve years of age, and Barbara, ten years of age, taken captive and the buildings burned. The feelings of the mother cannot be described, not knowing the tortures to which her innocent girls would be subjected. The girls were taken to the haunts of the Indians. They were finally separated and another little captive girl found a friend in Regina. These two tried to comfort each other in their captivity, and endured many hardships during their exile. Nine long years passed and then an order was given by Colonel Bouquet that all captives should be brought to Carlisle to receive their freedom and the friends could come and claim their captive people.

Regina was among those to be set free. Her mother was there to receive her, but as one after another took their rescued to their bosom in affectionate embrace the mother could not identify her girl, who had become so changed, both by her life and also by her Indian dress, that she could not be recognized, and having lost her language she could not understand what all this meant. By and by the colonel said to the mother, "Did not your daughter learn anything by which she could know you?" The mother then said, "Yes, she might know a hymn she had taught her and her sister." She then sang one verse of the hymn, "Allein und doch nicht ganz allein," and when she had done so Regina came rushing to her embrace and a happy reunion took place save the thought of the missing one, who fell a prey to the cruelties and hardships to which she was exposed.

Jacob Lerew, 100 acres in Monaghan Twp., 4 inhabitants.
1795 Jacob Lerue, 100 acres in Monaghan Twp.

IX Federal Census of 1790, Penna. Volume, lists this surname in Bucks, Chester, Dauphin, Lafette and Lancaster Counties - and under a misspelling, in Mongahan Twp., York County. The same given names seem to be found everywhere, i.e., Abraham, Isaac, Jacob etc. The family in Dauphin County came from Switzerland, according to Egle's Notes and Queries, 1896 vol. III, pp. 123-124. The name was also found at an early date in French Canada, in New York under the Dutch, and in New Jersey. A branch of the New Jersey family moved to Virginia before 1750 (Six Generations of Larues and Allied Families, by Otis M. Mather, Hodgenville, Ky., 1921). Whether in Canada, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia or Kentucky, the same Old Testament names are found, suggesting a possible general relationship. No one has, however, been able to prove such general connection.
